Band members meet at social

The ice cream social of Downers Grove South High School's marching band, held last Tuesday, June 16, in the school cafeteria, turned out to be a success.

The Marching Mustangs sponsor an ice cream social before each school year to get people acquainted with the band, said Dorothy Kowynia, publicity chairman for the Marching Mustang Boosters.

In addition to welcoming returning and members, the purpose of the social is to welcome new band members and their families to the 1992-93 marching season.

"It's important to get new families acquainted and show them what the organization is about," she said. "We get everybody involved."

This year the ice cream was provided by Baskin Robbins.

School District 99 program honored

By Dan Carney

No matter what day of the week it is, the halls are often alive with the sound of music at Downers Grove North and South high schools.

So maybe that is why Community High School District 99 was awarded the second-ever Outstanding Total Music Program Award by the Illinois Music Educators Association.

The award is given "in recognition of school districts that maintain (quality) music programs — performing as well as non-performing."

According to Diane Hires, head of the district's music department, the breadth of musical offerings at both high schools is what sets the program apart from the others.

She said many schools will sacrifice certain portions of their music programs to strengthen other areas. In other words, a school may have a strong orchestra while its band and chorus programs suffer.

But that has not been the case in District 99, where many of the 800 musical students participate in more than one music program.

The reason for the success, she says, is the dedicated career staff in the district. Both band directors, Alan Roselieb at South and Lance Schulz at North, have both been with the district for over 30 years. Hires herself has been with the district for 20 years.

"It takes decades to build a tradition, not two or three years, and I think a lot of people don't realize that," she said. "I don't think it has anything to do with the budget or the facilities. We just try to make the best of what we have."

District 99's orchestra is also a strong point of the music program because many other schools have dropped their orchestras over the past 15 years, according to Hires. Patrick Anello directs orchestras at both schools and combines the two for performances.

Both schools also have bands that travel. "The trips have been an important part of the energy building in band," Hires said.

Non-performing music courses, such as music theory, rock and jazz listening classes and guitar, are also offered. Students also can learn to play instruments while in high school.

"There are people for whom performance is not right," Hires said. "But a lot of us are going to be listeners for the rest of our lives."

The district will officially receive the award in January.

Other music staff members include Laura Nichols, choral director; Craig Roselieb, choral and band director; James Arns Jr. and Lois Nelson, accompanists; and secretaries Loretta Walton and Beth Nielsen.

Top students pick top area teachers

Many teachers from area schools were named in the Who's Who Among American Teachers 1992.

Teachers are selected by their former students who are listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students or The National Dean's List, publications which recognize the top 5 percent of the nation's high school and college students.

Students were asked to nominate teachers who made a difference in their lives by helping to shape their values, inspiring interest in a particular subject and/or challenging them to strive for excellence.
